

단어 첫소리 ㄷ · ㅌ · ㄸ: 소리 구별과 읽기

Practice distinguishing and reading the word-initial Korean consonants ㄷ (plain), ㅌ (aspirated), and ㄸ (tense). Helpful English sound references are provided so beginners can connect the sounds and read simple words accurately.

WHAT THIS IS FOR

Learners will identify and pronounce ㄷ (plain), ㅌ (aspirated), and ㄸ (tense) in word-initial position, link them to clear English cues (ㄷ ≈ between English d and t with a light puff, ㅌ ≈ t in "top", ㄸ ≈ tense t with no puff, close to the t in "stop"), and correctly read simple words containing these initials.

1 THE LETTERS

LETTER	SOUND	TRACE AND COPY
ㄷ	plain t, light puff of air (weaker than ㅌ) between English d and t; at the start of a word it often sounds like a soft t
ㅌ	aspirated t, strong puff of air like t in "top"
ㄸ	tense t, tight and short tense "tt" with no puff of air; closest English is the t in "stop"

2 NOW THE WORDS
