

ㄴ · ㅁ · ㄹ · ㅇ 으로 시작하는 글자 읽기

Learn how ㄴ, ㅁ, ㄹ and ㅇ sound at the start of a syllable, then read easy words like 나무, 머리, 라면 and 우유.

WHAT THIS IS FOR

Read and say ㄴ, ㅁ, ㄹ and ㅇ at the start of a syllable, including the quick ㄹ tap and the silent ㅇ, in simple words.

1 THE LETTERS

| LETTER | SOUND                                                                                                                                                        | TRACE AND COPY                    |
|--------|--------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----------------------------------|
| ㄴ      | n (name: 니은)like n in "no"                                                                                                                        |  |
| ㅁ      | m (name: 미음)like m in "moon"                                                                                                                      |  |
| ㄹ      | r/l tap (name: 리을)between vowels, a quick tap like the American "tt" in "butter" (not an English r); at the start of a word it is a light tap too |  |
| ㅇ      | silent at the start of a syllable (name: 이응)no sound: it only holds the place, so 아 sounds like "ah"                                              |  |
