

약국에서 감기약 사기

A customer with a cold describes their symptoms at a Korean pharmacy and buys cold medicine without a prescription.

WHAT THIS IS FOR

Learners can state symptoms ('-이/가 아파요', '-이/가 나요'), understand dosing instructions (하루 ~ 번, 한 번에 ~ 알씩, 식후에), and check them with '~ 먹으면 돼요?'

1 THE CONVERSATION

약사 어서 오세요. 어디가 불편하세요?

Welcome. What seems to be the problem?

손님 목이 아프고 콧물이 나요.

My throat hurts and I have a runny nose.

약사 언제부터 그러셨어요?

Since when has it been like that?

손님 어제부터요.

Since yesterday.

약사 다른 약 드시는 거 있어요?

Are you taking any other medicine?

손님 아니요, 없어요.

No, I'm not.

약사 그럼 이 감기약 드세요. 하루 세 번, 한 번에 한 알씩 식후에 드세요.

Then take this cold medicine. Take one tablet at a time, three times a day, after meals.

손님 밥 먹고 먹으면 돼요?

So I take it after I eat?

약사 네, 맞아요. 식사하시고 드세요.

Yes, that's right. Take it after you eat.

3 YOUR TURN

- The pharmacist says: '하루 두 번, 한 번에 한 알씩 드세요.' How many tablets do you take in one day? Answer in English or Korean.
- Your throat hurts and you have a cough. Answer the pharmacist's question '어디가 불편하세요?' in one sentence. Join the two symptoms with '-고'.
- The pharmacist asks '언제부터 그러셨어요?' Your symptoms started the day before yesterday. Give a short answer ending in '-부터요'.
- Write this instruction in Korean the way a pharmacist would say it: 'Take it twice a day, after meals.'
- You think the pharmacist said to take two tablets at a time, but you're not sure. Ask a question to check. End it with '먹으면 돼요?', like the customer does in the dialogue.
